

Proposed Utah Educational Leadership Standard Revisions

Introduction

Changing school conditions, shifting school populations, increased expectations for student learning, and expanding knowledge on effective leadership have created new challenges and expectations for educational leaders. Clear and consistent leadership standards can assist all educational stakeholders in understanding these expectations. These standards, grounded in current research and the real-life experiences of educational leaders, articulate the leadership that our schools need and our students deserve. They are student-centric, outlining foundational principles of leadership to guide the practice of educational leaders so they can move the needle on student learning and achieve more equitable outcomes for all students. They are designed to ensure that educational leaders are ready to meet effectively the challenges and opportunities of the job today and in the future by guiding school leaders at all levels as they:

- create challenging but caring and supportive conditions conducive to each student's learning,
- collaborate on shared vision, mission, goals, and commitments to ensure student learning at high levels,
- develop and support teachers relentlessly in cycles of continuous improvement,
- create positive working conditions,
- allocate resources effectively,
- develop appropriate organizational procedures and practices, and
- engage in other deep and meaningful work both inside and outside the classroom that has a powerful impact on what happens inside it.

These standards are foundational to all levels of educational leadership. They apply to principals and assistant principals and they apply to district leaders as they engage in similar domains of work as school leaders. However, the specific standards in each strand focus more on school-level leadership than district-level leadership. Moreover, district-level leaders have additional responsibilities associated with their particular roles (e.g., working with school boards and labor relations), and those responsibilities extend beyond these standards.
