

UTAH'S CHALLENGE TO Do the Write Thing!

2024 -2025 Utah's "Do the Write Thing" Challenge INSTRUCTIONS FOR CLASSROOM TEACHERS

Introduction

Thank you for involving your 7th and 8th grade students in the 2025 Utah Do the Write Thing (DtWT) Challenge. Across America, students are rising to the challenge of doing something to end youth violence. The Challenge offers middle school students the opportunity to examine the impact of youth violence on their lives, and to communicate in writing what they think should be done to change the culture of violence.

The Challenge emphasizes personal responsibility by encouraging students to make personal commitments to do something about the problems related to youth violence. The program ultimately seeks to give students the opportunity to break the cycle of violence in their homes, schools, and neighborhoods. Your involvement and support are crucial to the success of the Challenge in Utah.

Carefully review the following materials concerning program rules, entry deadlines, judging criteria, classroom discussion, and student recognition before presenting the program to your students—and to be sure your students' writings will not be disqualified.

Program Rules

- Students may use any form of written expression (e.g., essays, poems, plays, or songs), as long as the language is positive and not derogatory. Students may submit only one entry per year. All entries must be the work/product of only one student.
- Student entries, at minimum, must address these three questions:
 - How has youth violence affected my life?
 - What are the causes of youth violence?
 - What can I do to reduce youth violence?

NOTE: Writings that do not address these questions will not be advanced in the selection process.

- Entries must be in English.
- Proper citation is required if the student uses a quote or another person’s materials in his or her entry. Writings based upon plagiarism will not be advanced in the selection process.
- Editing of content, grammar or spelling by someone other than the student is not permitted. Only original student entries are eligible to be submitted by the teacher. Grammar and spelling are not considered in the scoring matrix.
- If a story is fictional, it must be identified as such to be advanced in the selection process; however, strong preference will be given to non-fiction in the final selection process.
- Please fill out the teacher survey completely. Only one completed “Teacher Survey” is required from each teacher. It is critical that teachers keep track and complete the Teacher Survey as it helps validate the need for the program's existence and for Utah to continue to participate in at the national level. Teachers must report on the number of students participating in-classroom discussions, how many students prepared writings, and how many students submitted their writings.

Submission Process and Deadline

- The entry submission deadline is Friday, January 10, 2025.
- All submissions will be done online via a Qualtrics survey.
- Teachers interested to participate will need to Register following this link. Teachers will receive a specialized link for distribution to students. No deadline for preregistration. It is highly recommended to register early.
- Webinar: Thursday 10, 2024 from 3:00 PM - 4:00 PM. Please use this Zoom link if you would like to know more about Utah’s DtWT Challenge, submission process, and lesson plans.

Selection Criteria

All entries will be reviewed by Utah’s Do the Write Thing Committee, the Utah State Board of Education Prevention and Student Services Team, and VIP judges.

The 2024 DtWT Challenge VIP judges included: Sydnee Dickson, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Utah State Board of Education; Aspen Florence, Behavioral Consultant; Madeline Gordon, 2023 DtWT National Ambassador; Emily Green, Fourteenth District Board Member, Utah State Board of Education; Zachary Jackson, 2023 DtWT National Ambassador; Patty Norman, Deputy Superintendent, Utah State Board of Education; Sarah Sun, Miss Utah 2023; LeAnn Wood, Fourth District Board Member, Utah State Board of Education; and Sarah Young,

Chief of Staff, Utah State Board of Education and Salt Lake City Council Member. Entries will be judged based on content, originality and responsiveness to the three questions as listed on page 1.

Grammar and spelling will not be used as criteria for judging entries, as this is an anti-violence initiative and the priority is to encourage students to examine the aspects of youth violence.

Encourage your students to describe what they feel are the causes of youth violence and offer specific suggestions about what they as individuals can do to reduce youth violence in their homes, schools, and neighborhoods. Personal responsibility for responding to the problem of youth violence should be emphasized. Students who share personal experiences about the impact of youth violence on their lives and the lives of their peers consistently receive top scores — for these reasons fictional stories are highly discouraged. The panel of judges will be looking at how well your students present their views on these matters and scoring will be based on the following criteria: Question Responsiveness, Content/Ideas, and Originality/Voice/Honesty.

Classroom Discussion

Classroom discussion is not mandatory for participation in the Challenge. However, over the years we have found that participating students and their teachers gain much from the connections that result from exchanges about the impact of youth violence that occur in pre-writing classroom discussions. Teachers relate their amazement at the openness and honesty of classroom discussions. These discussions present excellent opportunities to identify and prevent youth problems before they reach a critical level.

Many teachers whose classes have participated in the Challenge have invited speakers knowledgeable about youth violence issues to lead pre-writing discussions. Other teachers have provided their students with selected readings or newspaper articles about youth violence in advance of the discussion to stimulate thought. Speakers or articles that emphasize personal responsibility on the part of students for responding to the problems of youth violence prove to be particularly useful.

The National Campaign to Stop Violence website has a discussion paper on the causes of and solutions for youth violence and other national resources that are helpful. The discussion paper is based upon writings of national finalists from the 2000 Challenge. Feel free to download and copy this material for classroom use or use any of the other materials available on the website.

Utah's DtWT Challenge website includes several lesson plans and Utah State Finalist books from prior years.

Consider the following sample questions to generate discussion among your students before they prepare their entries for the Challenge:

- How does youth violence affect your daily life?
- Where are you confronted with youth violence? Your home? Your school? Your neighborhood?
- What are some of the causes of youth violence in your community?
- What can you as an individual do to reduce youth violence in your community?

Standard Alignment

The “DtWT Challenge” has been reviewed by a panel of highly qualified public school teachers. The Challenge has been aligned to meet all the English Language Arts Standards in Writing for Grades 7 and 8 (Standards W.7.1 - W7.10 and W8.1 - W8.10). Please note that we have determined Standards W.7.2 and W.8.2 to only be applicable to nonfiction submissions.

Student Recognition

LOCAL LEVEL

Each writing will be read a minimum of three times by students from local universities. The two highest average scorers for the first round of reading will be selected from each school as State’s finalists. Teachers, please review all writings and make an assessment if there is a potential issue such as ongoing abuse or suicidal threats and take appropriate professional actions. In addition, past experiences have shown that a significant number of students’ writings have been disqualified due to insufficient information such as lack of parent signatures. Please make every effort to enter all necessary and required information so your students’ writings will qualify and be evaluated.

STATE LEVEL

Two writings per participating school will be selected as State’s finalists and will be invited to attend a recognition luncheon where the top two authors will be announced in April 2025. State finalists will receive a scholarship deposit to their My529 Education Saving Account. The top two writings, as “National Finalists” or “Ambassadors,” will be announced at the recognition luncheon. The Utah DtWT Committee of the Utah State Board of Education hosts a recognition luncheon in late April (usually the fourth Friday of the month) to honor the finalists. The finalists, students’ parents, teacher, and principal will be invited to attend the recognition luncheon. Utah DtWT will accommodate travel expenses for finalists and invited guests who live more than 50 miles radius of Salt Lake County according to the State’s travel policy.

The Utah DtWT Committee will publish the writing of finalists and will distribute the publication to community, business, and governmental leaders as well as the National Do the Write Thing Campaign. This book will also be posted on the Prevention website.

NATIONAL LEVEL

The top 24 writings, 12 boys and 12 girls, from across State will be selected and forwarded to VIP judges for final scoring and will be selected for two runners-up, and one “National Finalist” or “Ambassador for Peace.” The Ambassador will represent Utah and participate in various activities include attending the annual Promising Youth Conference at Snowbird, Utah 2nd week of May, being recognized at the Utah State Board of Education board meeting in May or June and attending the National Recognition Week activities sponsored by the Kuwait-America Foundation and the Kuwait Foundation for the Advancement of Science in Washington DC in July. The Ambassador’s writing, along with other Ambassadors’ writings across the nation, will be published and placed in the Library of Congress. Teachers, please inform your students of these potential commitments if selected as National Finalists.

Writing is the core component of the DtWT Challenge. After classroom discussions about youth violence, participating middle school students are asked by their teachers to make a commitment not to be involved in violence and provide written answers to three questions:

1. How has violence affected my life?
2. What are the causes of youth violence?
3. What can I do to reduce youth violence?

The DtWT experience is flexible, allowing for adaptation as needed by school districts and individual classrooms. Thus, the writing component of DtWT can cover significant portions of the Common Core State Standards for English Language Arts.

DtWT and Standards Alignment

WRITING

Essays that include a narrative component, such as those that address the first question, can fulfill 3.A-E for grades 6, 7, and 8.

Essays that address the second two questions can fulfill 1.A-E, 2.A-F, 7, 8, and 9 for grades 6, 7, and 8.

All essays can be used to fulfill 4 for grades 6, 7, and 8.

Depending on the level of teacher involvement in students' writing for the DtWT Challenge, the program can be used to fulfill 5 (peer review), 6 (technology), and 10 (writing over a range of time and revision) for grades 6, 7, and 8.

7 th Grade	8 th Grade
