USBE Chief of Staff Sarah Young Selected for the Google GSV Education Innovation Fellowship

SALT LAKE CITY – Sarah Young, Chief of Staff at the Utah State Board of Education has been selected to the 2024-2025 cohort of the Google GSV Education Innovation Fellowship – a groundbreaking program formed through a partnership between GSV and Google for Education.

The Google GSV Education Innovation Fellowship unites K-12 superintendents and top-level instructional leaders dedicated to working at the intersection of technology and instruction to shape the future of education. By fostering collaboration among these visionary change agents, the Fellowship creates a powerful network that drives advancements in the EdTech landscape, instructional innovation, and student outcomes.

“The impact of our inaugural Fellowship made innovative education tangible for millions of students and educators, with fellows launching companies and transforming districts across the country,” says Tiffany Taylor, Partner and Chief People & Impact Officer at GSV. “As the Fellowship grows with our second cohort of K-12 systems leaders, we’re inspired by the contributions they’ll add to the ecosystem through rigorous learning opportunities, rich community, and collaborations across the broader innovation landscape.”

Throughout the year, Sarah Young will work alongside 25 other Fellowship participants, collectively serving 2.8 million students nationwide. Fellows will engage in collaborative projects, share insights, and create tangible impacts in the education system. In this unique environment, the Google

GSV Education Innovation Fellowship and its imaginative cohort are poised to pave the way for more innovative and student-centered learning.
